

Panic

In one breath of air

I swam to the bottom of the ocean and brought back the earth.

I painted the walls and the ceiling an even white.

Then I knocked out a wall.

On the lake a swan folds herself into her wings forever. It was that time of year. The snakes are making rain.